

Job Offer: Senior Behavioral Therapist / Program Coordinator for a Transition to Adulthood and Individualized Support Program for Adolescents

Position: Senior Behavioral Therapist

Location: Geneva

Compensation: Competitive and motivating salary

Hours: 60% (25 hours per week)

We are the parents of a verbally communicative teenager with autism, who has no behavioral issues. Since he was 2 years old, we have built an ABA intervention team around him. He is constantly supported by team members in individual home sessions, during his professional internships, and throughout his leisure activities and daily routines. Following the departure of our senior lead therapist abroad, we are seeking a new therapist to join our team.

The ideal candidate should have:

- Significant experience as a senior ABA therapist (minimum 5 years of training/work in ABA with teenagers/adults with autism)
- Strong organizational skills and proficiency in data collection
- High reliability (we work with significant responsibilities, and we need someone dependable for the care provided)
- A dynamic, committed, and compassionate attitude

The intervention team is supervised several times a month by a BCBA. Our son follows a program jointly defined with this person. His individualized program includes academic, language/conversational, social, as well as daily living and vocational training goals. We are based in Geneva and are looking for a therapist for 25 hours per week.

For candidates seeking full-time employment, we can assist by connecting them with another employer looking for a similar profile.

An initial period of a few weeks, dedicated to getting to know the team and passing on essential information about our son, must be considered. Immediate availability or within one month is required.

Job Type: Part-time, 25 hours per week (60% Swiss)

Salary: Very attractive for the right candidate – Swiss employment contract possible

Experience Required: ABA: minimum 5 years

Applications that do not meet the required profile will not be considered.

Application Process: To apply, please send your CV and a cover letter to contacts.infos.recrutement@gmail.com
